

“Poetry Knows No Borders” Celebrate Poetry, Come
Read a Poem With Us

The World is My Country

Emily Dickinson once said. In the global world we live in, the decisions we make do affect others. December is “Universal Human Rights Month” so join us—come and read a poem or two with us—one of your favorites or write your own—that express your support for human rights around the world. Share your joy, anger or sadness in rich, poetic company. Tell only your best friends about this exciting event, but tell them! Join us on Thursday, Dec. 4, 7:30-9:30 PM to celebrate poetry, poets across the ages and across cultures.

Sponsored by the Open U/Classes to Open your Mind & Heart.

Where? The Bookstore in the Grove, 3399 Virginia Street, #620, Coconut Grove. Come read an original or a favorite poem or two with fellow poetry lovers

The Open U /Intl. Institute for Human Understanding. Info: www.iihu.org or contact Michael Malone at (305) 281-4089 or mikelrm@aol.com