

Invites You to a Lecture:

- Time: Thursday, March 26 at 7:30 PM
- Venue: Unitarian Universalist Congregation
7701 SW 76th Ave., Miami, 33143
- Subject: Women, Religion, and Monstrous Births in Early America
- Speaker: Adj. prof. Kelley Flannery Rowan, FIU
- Synopsis: Life in the Calvinist frontier land of New England was no cake-walk. Women and men faced Indian incursions, starvation, and town bickering over who was saved and who should be banished.
- But women carried an additional burden; they watched their children die of infection and disease, were at risk of being named a witch, and gave birth to stillborn children . . . with horns, scales and talons whose body the occasional town minister might dig up . . . !
- Join us for a lecture/discussion spotlighting some of the women who shaped the religious history of this country and celebrate women's fortitude and intelligence in the face of such adversity!

Bring friends and family – Come early and network!

Admission: $10 (students half price)
Free, plentiful parking
Light refreshments

For more information: 305.200.6494 or 305.302.7536

Open U is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization